

Amrit Campus, formally named as Public Science College (PUSCOL) and later named as Amrit Science College (ASCOL), after the late Mr. Amrit Prasad Pradhan. Mr. Pradhan was born in 1918 at Thamel, Kathmandu. He served as headmaster of Jooddha High School in Birgunj for two years and later joined Tri-Chandra College as lecturer in Chemistry. In 1962, he became founder Principal of Public Science College (present Amrit Campus) and began teaching as professor of Chemistry. Late Principal Amrit Prasad Pradhan established Amrit Campus with a view to promote the study of Science and Technology in Nepal. The campus has benefited greatly from his spirit or enterprise, dedication and enthusiasm. While on a mission to the United States of a cause connected with the college, he died in an air crash over Mt. Blanc on January 24, 1966. The death of this noble soul was mourned by the nation.

Patan Multiple Campus was established on 2nd September 1954 AD under the Ministry of Education of Nepal. This campus was established even before the establishment of Tribhuvan University. Patan Multiple Campus was founded with the name “Patan Inter College” and was inaugurated by the Crown Prince His Majesty Mahendra Bir Bikram Shah. The Campus was renamed Patan Multiple Campus after the implementation of the National Education System in 2030 BS (1973 AD). Only in 1973 AD, the Campus was added to Tribhuvan University as a constituent campus. The campus occupies about 27,296 sq. m area. Patan Multiple Campus is well facilitated with sufficient classrooms with spacious premises that fit all the required infrastructures of the faculties. Being one of the largest campuses in Nepal, it has all its facilities within the premises of the campus and they are equipped for every program they learn.

ST. XAVIER’S COLLEGE, Kathmandu, is an educational institution of higher learning established and managed by the Nepal Jesuit Society. The Jesuits began their educational work in Nepal in 1951 with the opening of St. Xavier’s School, Godavari, followed by St. Xavier’s School, Jawalakhel, St. Xavier’s School, Deonia, Moran Memorial School, Maheshpur, and St. Xavier’s School, Sadakbari. The Jesuits have served people of all faiths, all over the world, as educators, scientists, explorers and social reformers since 1540. The centuries-old tradition of service to others is the cornerstone of Jesuit education. Every institute and organization established by the Jesuits in Nepal, prepares each student to Live for God and Lead for Nepal. The education programme is designed to foster critical thinking, positive action and service to others. It challenges students to look beyond career, and have a wider vision of being channels of betterment. It encourages every student to be a job creator rather than a job seeker, and to play the role of being a creative designer of the future.
